

If you feel a bit nervous about what to do or what to expect, that's perfectly normal. Your interview is effectively an extension of your UCAS application. It's a chance for admissions tutors to get to know more about you, and a chance for you to get to know the university.

Know where and when you're going

Check your invitation to interview carefully. You should be given the name of the university, the name of the department, the name of the course, the name of the interviewer, the date and time of the interview, and the address of the university. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

It is important that you arrive at the university on time. If you are late, you may not be able to attend the interview.

Check the address of the university and the name of the department. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Check you've got everything you need

Check that you have everything you need for the interview. This includes your UCAS application, your identification, and any other documents that you need to bring with you. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Check that you have everything you need for the interview. This includes your UCAS application, your identification, and any other documents that you need to bring with you. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Try to feel (or at least look!) ready

Try to feel (or at least look!) ready for the interview. This means that you should be well-rested, well-dressed, and well-prepared. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Try to feel (or at least look!) ready for the interview. This means that you should be well-rested, well-dressed, and well-prepared. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Try to feel (or at least look!) ready for the interview. This means that you should be well-rested, well-dressed, and well-prepared. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Be prepared

Be prepared for the interview. This means that you should be well-rested, well-dressed, and well-prepared. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Be prepared for the interview. This means that you should be well-rested, well-dressed, and well-prepared. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Be prepared for the interview. This means that you should be well-rested, well-dressed, and well-prepared. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Be prepared for the interview. This means that you should be well-rested, well-dressed, and well-prepared. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Be prepared for the interview. This means that you should be well-rested, well-dressed, and well-prepared. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Be prepared for the interview. This means that you should be well-rested, well-dressed, and well-prepared. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Don't be hard on yourself

Don't be hard on yourself. Remember that the interview is just one part of the selection process. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Make the most of your visit to the university

Make the most of your visit to the university. This means that you should be well-rested, well-dressed, and well-prepared. If you are not sure about any of this information, contact the admissions office.

Good luck!

Quick tips

1. Read your invitation to interview thoroughly. You need to know where you are going, what time your interview is, and what you need to bring with you.
2. Read over your UCAS application, information on the course you have applied for and some general information about the university to prepare.
3. Do some extra reading. Have there been any developments in your field? E.g. Any new research developments in
4. Think about your future, do you know what you want to do with you degree? Do you have career plans?
5. Dress formally but comfortably.
6. Prepare questions to ask your interviewer.
7. Use the interview as an opportunity to learn as much about the university as possible.
8. Stay positive and calm.